

MACARTHUR WANTS PEACE TREATY AND TROOPS' RETURN

Nipponese Are Beginning To Recover From The Shock of Defeat

FEEL THE PRIVATION

Military Occupation Defeats
Own Purpose If It
Lasts Too Long

(Signs of growing resentment against American occupation forces of Japan are apparent in the second year of the occupation.)

(Howard Handelman, Tokyo
Bureau Chief of International News Service, in the concluding article of his series on Japan writes that the Nipponese are beginning to recover from the shock of defeat. This, he says, is one of the reasons why General Mac-Arthur feels a peace treaty should be signed soon and American troops withdrawn.)

By Howard Handelman
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
TOKYO, Aug. 22.—(INS)—Defeat is becoming an awfully long and some thing for the Japanese.

Col. Paul E. Howe, nutrition chief of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, expressed it by saying:

"The Japanese are getting a little more food this year than they did last, but they are less prepared, psychologically, to accept short rations now than they were a year ago because the war is a year further away. They have recovered from the shock of defeat and feel privation
more keenly."

The Japanese themselves have another way of putting it. A year ago they said they were "living the life of bamboo shoots." They meant that they had to peel themselves of possessions to "sell to eat." Just as they would peel a bamboo shoot before eating it.

This year the Japanese changed the saying slightly. Instead of using bamboo shoot as the illustration of their way of life, they use the onion.
They have been peeling themselves of possessions for so long now that tears come to their eyes each time-just as though they were peeling an onion.

The conquering Americans could say that it serves them right, that they earned every hurt they are suffering. But the Americans are not saying that. Gen. Douglas Mac-Arthur, in fact, has said repeatedly that peace must be finalized quickly.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

Andrei A. Gromyko vetoed the applications of Italy and Austria for membership in the United Nations yesterday on the ground that the peace treaties with those nations had not become effective. The United States and Britain opposed the candidacy of the Soviet satellites Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania. There was said to be a growing movement in United Nations circles to give the General Assembly a more prominent role in the belief that Russian vetoes were impairing the effectiveness of the Security Council.

A Mexican proposal that has been endorsed by 12 of the 19 other nations at the Inter-American Conference calls for an economic conference of the Western Hemisphere some time next year. The United States delegation recommended that collective hemisphere action against aggression short of an actual attack
by arms be placed under the jurisdiction of the United Nations.

Moscow protested to Washington
that the conference of Britain, France and the United States on increasing the level of German industrial production, which opens in London today, violated the Potsdam Agreement. However, the State Department made clear that the conference would proceed despite the Soviet objections.

DOYLESTOWN BOARD SETS TUITION RATES

Bond Bids Could Not Be Received Due To Error
Made by Directors

SELECT NEW TEACHER

DOYLESTOWN, Aug. 22.—Following the recommendation of Dr. J.
Leonard Halderman and the approval by the Department of Public Instruction, the tuition rates for non-resident pupils were set at a meeting of the School Board.

The elementary school tuition rates for grades one to six were set at $8.30 and the high school tuition rates, grades nine to 12, were set at $12.30.

Dr. Halderman announced that the elementary tuition last year was $8.88 and the high school $10.02. "It is the first time that the school board will receive aid in making up the increased salaries for the teachers," Dr. Halderman said.

The kindergarten tuition for non-resident boys and girls was set at $6.
The kindergarten, which is being operated for the first time as a part of the public school system in the borough this year, will operate on half-day schedules.

Children, whose names begin with the first half of the alphabet, will attend the morning session, and the remainder will attend the afternoon session.

Miss Sara N. Murray, who was teaching in the Langhorne schools, was elected the kindergarten teacher at a salary of $2200.

Because an error was made in the advertising of the $12,000 school bond improvement issue, no bids could be received at the meeting last evening. It was not an error on the part of the directors.

Halt Motorists In Search for Cigarettes

Two representatives of the Internal Revenue Department in civilian clothes and a State Trooper in uniform halted motorists on the Pennsylvania side of the Burlington Bristol bridge this morning in search for smuggled cigarettes.

It was an effort on the part of the Revenue Department to catch those who are suspected of purchasing cigarettes in New Jersey and thus avoid paying the tax recently levied in Pennsylvania.

The motorists were halted, some asked to get out of their cars while others were requested to open all of the compartments of their cars, lift out seats and baggage.

TALKING CROW IS THE TALK OF MORRISVILLE

No Split Tongue Conversation, Either, But Just Natural Talk

EATS WITH CAT, DOG

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 22.—A crow that talks is the main attraction in this borough during these humid days. The crow's vocal accomplishments are natural, too, because its tongue has not been split. Jo-Jo is the crow's name.

Jo-Jo perches proudly on the shoulder of his owner, 17-year-old Bill Dyott, of 44 Delaware avenue.
Bill acquired the crow a year ago
when it was less than a month old.
About six months ago Jo-Jo began to repeat the names of visitors to the Dyott home. Now he says "hello" and "goodbye" to visitors and will repeat many other words. He's developed a "belly" laugh that's almost human, too.

The bird likewise is a showman.
When he's being shown off his poise and behavior bear out the regard for the crow as the highest type of bird.

Crows are supposed to be vegetarians, but Jo-Jo likes scratch-feed, chicken bones and, best of all, hamburgers. There are two other pets in the Dyott household, a cat and dog, and mealtime usually finds the trio eating out of one dish. They aren't prone to fight over portions.

And, unlike most crows, Jo-Jo isn't a scourge to farmers. He's on his own during the day and isn't tempted to sneak into a nearby cornfield for a snack. At night he's put into a cage.

since birth, died in Children's Hos-

Final Distribution Is Made of Swain Estate

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—In a final distribution of the estate of a former Bristol resident, awards of $48,141 have been made to two daughters and a son.

The estate is that of the late Joseph W. Swain, coal merchant, who died September 5, 1923. The $48,141 is the final distribution of his $144-324 estate and approved by the Orphans Court here.

Under terms of Mr. Swain's will,
his widow, Mrs. Jessie McK. Swain, had a life interest in the estate. She died June 17, 1943. The daughters and son, who now share the estate entirely, are Evelyn L. Isabel A., and Alexander M. Swain.

Mr. Swain, who lived at 3016 W.
Coulter street, was head of Swain Brothers, wholesale coal dealers, which he and a brother founded in 1871.

Small Corn Yield May Increase Meat and Dairy Prices

Washington.—A government forecast of the smallest corn crop since the great drought of 1936 today presented the possibility of higher prices for meats, poultry, eggs and dairy products. Some agricultural economists even talked of eggs selling at $1 a dozen as a result of the situation which also may bring about a downward revision of the grain export program.

Appeal to UN to Prevent Refugee Deportation

London.—The Jewish National Council met in extraordinary session in Jerusalem today and called an urgent appeal to the United Nations to

The appeal followed rejection by the Jewish refugees, who were denied entry to Palestine, of a British ultimatum that they disembark in France or face trans-shipment to Germany.

Anti-British Rioting Spreads to Egypt

Cairo.—Anti-British rioting spread to Egypt today. Forty persons,

STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK AT WILSON'S

140 Employees Settle Their Differences With The Company

NOT A WAGE DISPUTE

The strike which has been in effect at the Hunter-Wilson Distilling Company's plant here was settled yesterday. The 140 employees affected returned to work today.

An announcement by the company
said:

"Employees of Hunter-Wilson
Distilling Co., Inc., at the company's Bristol plant returned to work yesterday following the conclusion of an agreement between the company and the Distillery Rectifying and Wine Workers International Union
of America, American Federation of Labor, whereby members of the union will henceforth participate in a new health and welfare program administered jointly by representatives of the company and of the union.

"Benefits derived by employees
will result from direct contributions
by the company into the new health and welfare fund.

"In conjunction with this agreement it was announced that interpretations of certain provisions of the agreement between the union and the company dated July 27, 1946, had been mutually clarified."

Attorney Addresses Fellow Rotarians

William Begley, Esq., trust officer of The Bristol Trust Company, addressed fellow members of the Rotary Club at the Elks' Home yesterday afternoon when he spoke on the subject, "Wills and Trusts."

"Whatever you do, don't die without leaving a will, because to do such is the surest way to complicate settlement of your estate, and you impose unnecessary hardship upon those who should get the benefit of your estate," Mr. Begley stated.

The speaker, who pointed out many of the technical points of will drafting, explained that each family and each individual have their own set of problems, and a will to be any good must be tailor-made to meet these special problems.

"In Pennsylvania anyone 21 years of age and sound in mind can make a will, and it should be in writing, and although no witnesses are necessary it is much better to have them. The will should also be typewritten since this eliminates the possibility of any contest because of illegible writing."

Begley also discussed oral wills, bequests to charity, powers to be given executors when wills are drawn, arrangements for payments of taxes, State and Federal estate and inheritance taxes, and procedure for setting up trusts. At the conclusion of his talk the speaker answered questions from members.

Vice-President Warren Woodruff
was in charge of the meeting. One visiting Rotarian, W. B. Taylor, Doylestown, was present.

BRISTOL WOMAN'S KEEN EYE "SPOTS" HER STOLEN AUTO

Alertness of Mrs. Paul V.
Forster Results in Recovery of Car

STOLEN HERE, AUG. 4

Attorney and Wife Check
Machine, Pretending
Interest in Buying

The keen, quick eye of a Bristol woman spotted her car which was stolen here on August 4th, as she and her husband drove past a used-car lot in Philadelphia Wednesday.
Then the Bristol couple, playing the part of detectives, returned to the lot pretending they were interested in purchasing a used car. Looking at a number of cars on the lot, and paying particular attention to little marks of identification which they knew were on their own car, Mr.
and Mrs. Paul V. Forster, 507 Radcliffe street, were convinced that they had found their car.

It was during the night of August 4th that the Forster car was taken from in front of 507 Radcliffe street.
The car was securely locked and all of the keys were in the possession of the owners. Police were notified and the usual teletype messages were dispatched.

The story as related by the police reveals that on Wednesday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Forster were enroute along Broad street to Bristol
returning here from Philadelphia.
Suddenly Mrs. Forster said "Paul, there is our car!" The Forsters continued for a square or so and then parked a new black De Soto sedan
which they had purchased, after giving up all hopes of recovering the one stolen. They walked back to the lot and began looking at all of the other cars, rather than the one which they thought was their own.
Finally reaching the object of their search, a blue De Soto sedan, purchased in the spring, it was decided that they liked "this one." The price was asked and the reply was $2450.
The little scratches were all in place. The glass ventilator in the right front door had apparently been replaced as it did not fit properly.
It was through this means that the thief, taking the car, had apparently gained access to unlock the car at the time of theft.

THEY PROVED IT

For four months they did not set foot on land, those six Scandinavian scientists bobbing on a cork-light balsa raft which the towering waves of the Pacific never managed to overturn. Now they are ashore again on one of the South Sea Islands, famed in travelers' tales for the happiness and peace which was the unshared secret of their civilization.

The scientists, young fellows all, set out to prove the possibility of a theory. Most anthropologists believe the island-dwellers of Polynesia traveled there from the Asiatic mainland. With the New World so far away, where else could they have come from?

But these men thought it was possible for ancient peoples to have crossed the Pacific from Peru on a raft. They set out to prove it, and they have done so.

Their raft, the Kon-Tiki, was made on the centuries-old pattern of the mysterious blonde race which, according to tales handed down by word of mouth, ruled Peru in pre-Inca days. It was 45 feet long, with an oar for rudder and a gaudy square sail to keep the mariners from drifting out of the moving Humboldt current. What few modern conveniences the raft had room for provided nothing which an early Peruvian could not have obtained in his own way.

The two-way radio, the scientific instruments, the lanterns, the rubber dingy, were not essentials to a trans-Pacific heira. The little still to provide fresh water was merely a substitute for the hollowed canes in which the ancient race stored its water for trips out of sight of shore.

And so, in the midst of a world harried and anxious, the six men had a busy, peaceful adventure away from it all. They added to the sum of the world's knowledge.

A LONG WAY BACK

In denying the need for putting restrictions on the use of the veto in the Security Council, Warren R. Austin is, it is to be hoped, not merely making the best of a situation which it would be extremely difficult to change. As the chief American delegate to the United Nations he has had Russia throw its "No" at him 11 times and on each occasion the performance has stymied the best efforts of the delegates to promote international co-operation. Why then does he resist any change in the system?

The answer is that the veto power is needed by the Big Five which fought and won the war to protect them against a possible combination of smaller states. Intelligently and decently used, which obviously it hasn't been, it would maintain a proper balance within the United Nations.

It seems to be Mr. Austin's opinion that the present bad condition can be cured by a return of high ethical standards in international relations. But that, it is clear, involves a long trek backward. Because of the Soviet, standards are going down instead of up.

and that American troops must get out of Japan.

He emphasizes that a military occupation defeats its own purpose if it lasts too long because it develops a resentment among the occupied people.

Such resentment is a possibility in Japan. Although there is still little open resentment of Americans, there is much more now than there was a year ago.

Defeat is beginning to hurt more, Japanese complain that they have to ride in trains so crowded that sometimes people are trampled to death, while Americans ride in trains that usually are more than half empty.

Japanese businessmen, who claim they are the best friends America has in Japan, were shaken last month when SCAP ordered dissolution of the Mitsui and Mitsubishi Trading Companies, just as they were getting ready for the limited reopening of private trade on August 15.

Fugees are resentful on personal grounds, and the most influential men in Japan have been purged from government and economic circles.

Young Japanese are resentful that Americans have an advantage over them in competition for Japanese girls.

Japanese generally believe their lot would be much easier if they did not have to pay the cost of occupation, and only a few, sophisticated Japanese realize that the cost of occupation has been boosted to astronomical figures deliberately by a government that hopes occupation costs will be so high the Allies will not ask for industrial reparations from Japan.

American law enforcement officers, following orders literally, stop Japanese men and women on the streets and make them open the silk bundles they all carry.

If American cigarettes or cosmetics or food are found the Japanese is turned over to the Japanese police and a jail which has been changed but little since the worst days of the Japanese oppression.

There jailers tell prisoners they would like to help them, but as long as they are prisoners of the Americans nothing can be done.

In addition to the specific instances building resentment, there is the overall picture of the humiliation created by the "off limit" signs on restaurants and theatres and subways, the signs telling Americans it is unsafe to drink from water fountains which Japanese use, unsafe to eat food Japanese use, unsafe to swim off beaches Japanese use.

The Army's necessary health program, including airplanes which spread clouds of DDT, is insulting to Japanese, even though they recognize the benefits they get from insect control. But it is mute testimony that Americans don't think of the Japanese as human beings.

Applying Your Eye Make-Up

Beautiful eyes, such as Actress Janet Blair's, are something every girl can have with the help of a little eye make-up.

By HELEN FOLLETT
OPERATORS in beauty shops are playing up eye charm more and more, teaching the pulchritude-seeking customers what should be done about eyes, lashes and eyebrows. That's where some of the girls fall down on their make-up work. They fail to use aids that are available or they play with them too long; overdo the job.

It is a nice idea to use a lubricant on the eye lids. Don't let the powder pad touch them. A bit of mascara on the lashes forms a contrasting frame. Be cannie with it. Brush upward always. That treatment will give a tilt to the silky valances on the curtains of your soul windows.

Darkened Eyebrows
If eyebrows must be darkened, the unskilled make-upper will do better with mascara than with the crayon. A few little sweeps of the brush will impart a clear coloring; will not stain the underlying flesh.

If crayon is preferred, do not form straight, harsh lines; do quick little strokes the way the fuzzers slant. As for the eyes themselves, it is best not to meddle with them. Don't attempt to do eye exercises unless advised by a specialist.

Self Lubricating
Eyes are self washing and self lubricating. They have a pretty satisfactory system for protecting the eyes from being invaded by foreign matter. On the inner portions of the lids are tiny glands that secrete oil that, with every movement of the lid, is carried over the surface of the cornea, keeping the delicate tissues from drying out.

When applying a face cream be gentle around the eyes. A light tapping movement is best to keep the delicate fibers taut. If the eyes are tired, wring a heavy wash cloth out of ice cold water, hold close over the soul orbs until the flesh is warm and glowing. Repeat several times.

Both parties win when you use Want Ads.

Along The Sports Trail

By Lou Garavente

(I. N. S. Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22—(INS)—America's champion of professional tennis may have to invade the ranks of the amateurs and tour foreign countries before he realizes any financial gain from his recently acquired title.

Hobby Riggs, another of the net stars from sunny California, defeated red-headed Don Budge in June in five dazzling but grueling sets to defend successfully the crown he won last year.

Despite the fact that Riggs is the undisputed monarch of pro tennis, his net profit from the tournament held at Forest Hills, New York was a very paltry $750.

In order to rectify this comparatively crude financial set-up, Riggs has admitted that he would like very much to play an exhibition match with the current U. S. amateur titlist, Jack Kramer.

Present plans call for the exhibition to be played in Madison Square Garden this winter, and rough estimates indicate that the least Riggs would receive for displaying his tennis wares would be a slightly frigid $50,000. All of this is contingent upon whether U. S. L. T. A. officials would sanction play between a professional and an amateur.

Another provocative point is whether Kramer would be the one who received the bid to tangle with Bobby Riggs has intimated that he wants to play the amateur singles champion of the U. S. That does not necessarily mean Kramer, although there are few who think there is anyone capable of upsetting him.

Frank Kovacs, the "clown prince" of tennis, is one who thinks another American amateur ace might dethrone Kramer.

"Don't be too sure Kramer will qualify for the Garden match with Riggs," said Kovacs. "I think Tom Brown, Bob Falkenberg or Frank Parker may be the amateur titlist this year instead of Jackie."

Kovacs, who quite possibly could rule the tennis roost himself, if he did not lapse into occasional whimsicalities, added a few words about Kramer's chances of defeating Riggs.

Frank said: "Riggs would have the advantage over Kramer on grass, but Kramer would have an even chance on a hard court."

Then Kovacs added significantly: "But Riggs is tough on that surface, too."

If the Garden match is played, it will be played on a hard wooden floor, a court which, according to Kovacs, will give Kramer his "even chance."

Another plan Riggs has for capitalizing on his title as a professional tennis champion is a European tour with three of the finest pro tennis players in the world.

On July 15, Riggs, Budge, Pauline Betz and Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Cooke are scheduled to leave for England in the first of a series of foreign exhibitions. You may recall that Miss Betz and Mrs. Cooke "turned pro" a few months ago. Miss Betz became professional following a suspension by the U. S. L. T. A. while she was playing in Europe.

This tennis quartet has four former national singles champions. Riggs held the men's title in 1939 and '41; Budge was the national titlist in 1937 and '38; Miss Betz won the women's crown last year; and in 1941 Mrs. Cooke defeated Miss Betz for the title.

In the parlance of movie critics, his particular tennis show is a four star attraction. How European tennis enthusiasts will react is another and more important question. It wasn't too long ago that Riggs embarked on a tennis tour that saw him just about make ends meet. He can't afford to be involved in another losing proposition.

Hut, if European court addicts want to witness four of the greatest tennis stars in this country ever produced, they should see these singles aces in action.

It's a golden opportunity for foreign tennis fans, and if the war hasn't emptied European wallets, it will be a golden opportunity for the professionals, too.

Quick Pick-Up—A Warm Bath

Courtesy Yardley

A fragrant meal that makes the water soft as liquid velvet is an added luxury touch for your bath.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE are times when a girl will give herself a terrific rush-around during the day although she knows that the merry evening is ahead of her, and that she would look her loveliest when she togs up and trails out with the best feller. Goodness, knows she needs a pick-up treatment. She looks in the mirror and decides, as silly girls do, that she looks ten years older. Of course she doesn't. She just feels that way.

Take it easy, lady, take it easy. When your cavalier arrives to fetch you, you must be poised and calm, as if you never had a weary or bored moment in your life. Start by filling the bath tub with warm water. Throw in some nice fragrant bath salts, or a meal that makes the water soft as liquid velvet. You are going to rest your tired bones and hush-hush your nagging nervous system.

Brisk Creaming

Fuck your pretty curls under your bath cap. Give your face a brisk creaming. Cream and moist air will do wonders for your complexion. Relax in the warm water, close your eyes, close the doors of your mind. Nothing like a hot bath to make a new woman out of you.

Give yourself a scrubbing with a well-soaped brush that has bristles strong and firm enough to take the skin right off of you. The circulatory streams will respond. Give yourself an alternating hot and cold shower. Fine. Then a rub-down with a heavy towel that takes hold like the pangs of a guilty conscience. Then friction with a fragrant bath tonic.

If you have half an hour to spare this is the time to put an ice cold compress over your eyes and lie down, limp as a rag, for half an hour. The compress will erase the weary look from your eyes.

Now you are at your dressing table, using cream again, wiping it away, leaving the skin just moist enough to make the synthetic blush and the gardenia complexion powder stick by you for hours and hours.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By Jack Ward

(I. N. S. State Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, Aug. 20—(INS)—Although known chiefly for its industrial might, Pennsylvania also ranks among the first in the nation as an agricultural state, as evidenced by publication of the 1945 Census of Agriculture.

Reporting on 3,069 counties in the United States, the census included many Pennsylvania counties among the first 100 leading in production of important crops.

Lancaster County headed the list of Pennsylvania's counties included in this "blue book" of American agriculture. The county ranked first in the nation in tobacco production, second in the number of dozens of eggs produced, third in the number of chickens and ninth in the value of all dairy products sold.

York County ranked fourth, Bucks 13th and eight others were included among the first hundred in egg production. York was fourth, Bucks eighth and seven others included in the 100 having the highest number of chickens. Other than Lancaster, six Pennsylvania counties were among the leaders in value of dairy products.

Adams County was rated 10th in the number of apple and cherry trees while 11 others were among the top 100 in the harvest of Irish potatoes, and in the number of apple and cherry trees.

Erie was the 14th county in the nation in the number of grape vines. Allegheny County, one of the world's heaviest industrial centers, was listed among the first 100 counties harvesting cherries, pears, plums and apples.

R. H. Olmstead, Chief of Dairy Extension at Pennsylvania State College, reported that in the first four months of this year, 40,000 dairy cows were bred artificially in the state. The figure represented a 54 per cent increase over the corresponding period in 1946. Olmstead predicted that the same rate of increase would be maintained for the remainder of the current year.

While corn crop estimates for most of the nation fell during recent weeks, the State Agriculture Department reported that growing conditions in mid-summer were so favorable that estimates were revised upward by nearly 3,000,000 bushels. The estimated crop was advanced by 2,704,000 bushels to boost the anticipated crop to 58,136,000 bushels, the Department said.

"This is most encouraging to farmers and consumers, for the more corn we grow the better we can produce meat, milk and eggs," Agriculture Secretary Miles Horst declared. "The estimate is nearly four million bushels higher than the 10-year average."

Bits About Beans

In today's fast-paced world of change it's heartening to know some things are stable. For instance, take that universal favorite, a crock of beans. Since time began, man has had a hankering for beans. Once they grew everywhere on tangled vines, and man munched them as he roamed the forests. When he crawled out of his cave and started a garden, man included beans among his very first crops.

Some kind of bean has appeared in every agriculture since then, though it was not always used as food. Somehow, perhaps because they seemed imperishable beans got mixed up with mythology and portent. The Pharaohs of Egypt were buried with a bowl of beans at their head and feet. For the Romans, the holidays of the Bean was an important holiday to secure special blessings on the home. On this day, early in the morning, the head of the household washed his hands three times in a silver ewer of water, then he plucked nine handfuls of beans from a golden vessel, and tossing them over his shoulder, repeated each time, "With these beans I redeem myself and my household."

After several centuries of glory, the bean went back to the kitchen in medieval times. Broad beans appeared in every garden, and black bean soup formed the day-in, day-out diet of serfs on the feudal estate. But nothing new happened to beans until the white man came to America. Here he found the Indian enjoying a new kind, the pea bean that we use today. And these beans were cooked differently than they had ever been before. The Indian dug a hole in the ground, dropped in heated stones, placed a crock of beans on the glowing rocks, and covered the hole with leaves and mulch until the beans were done. Adapting the Indian's dish, the Pilgrim mothers added a slicing of sauce, with salt pork and onions, and they baked theirs for long hours in a fireplace oven until each bean was meaty, tender, and a warm nut brown.

Soon the potful of oven-baked beans was a favorite national food. It sailed the world on clipper ships; it went west in packhorse trains, ox carts, and covered wagons. The miner, the lumberjack, the cowpuncher, the explorer, all relied on beans. They became part of Ameri-

FABRICS AND COLOR HIGHLIGHT COATS SHOWN FOR AUTUMN

Suede and neoprene woollens probably will be the most popular class of materials for the average price fall coat of the dressy type. These have a soft surface, almost like a pile fabric. Many coats will be fur trimmed. Bold plaids and tweeds are in the lead for the full or straight coat of the sports type.

Men's wear worsteds have long been popular for suits and retain their popularity this season. Worsteds are made of fine, hard-twisted threads of wool and is the kind of material which tailors well and keeps well pressed. However, it also gets shiny with hard wear. Gabardine is still first choice among the softer wool suitings. The new sheen twills have a lustrous surface.

The costume suit, the popular dress with jacket combination, is can table folklore, and our menfolk still have a hankering for them today. But today's housewife is spared all the time- and trouble-taxing chore of overnight soaking and day long baking. Our beans now come in cans, but, true to tradition, they are still blessed with a savory, spiced sauce and baked in a hot, dry oven.

But their virtues do not stop right here. For these same beans, a feast in themselves as they come from the can, are also the makings of many and varied fine dishes. As proof of this we suggest you try the recipes below—a salad dressing that saves oil, a cheesy bean rarebit, dairy-style soup, and a meal-making wieny bean sandwich. Here's how:

Tomato Bean Dressing

Mash—1 17½-oz. jar oven-baked beans in tomato sauce.

Combine with—

2 tablespoons cider vinegar
¼ cup finely chopped celery
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion.

Serve on lettuce wedges. Yields 2 cups.

Note: For added zest add ¼ teaspoon dehydrated horse-radish.

Cheesy Bean Rarebit

Heat in saucepan—1 17½-oz. jar oven-baked beans in tomato sauce.

Grate—

¼ lb. English cheese (makes 1 ½ cups).

In top of double boiler heat until cheese is melted.

Grated cheese—2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon pepper sauce.

Place beans on—

4 slices toast.
Top with cheese sauce. Serves 4.

Dairy Style Bean Soup

In—1 cup water
cook until tender—1 cup julienned celery.

Add—

½ cup sour cream
1 17½-oz. jar oven-baked beans in tomato sauce
Salt and pepper to taste.

Heat thoroughly. Serves 3 to 4.

Wieny Bean Sandwich

Mash—1 cup oven-baked beans in tomato sauce.

Combine with—

2 cups shredded cabbage
4 frankfurters, sliced thin
1 tablespoon finely chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste.

Use as a sandwich spread. Serves 8.

STEADFAST STARLINGS

MEADVILLE, Pa., (INS)—Those starlings, if nothing else, are persistent. Last year Meadville residents tried to chase them away with shotguns. The fire department turned hoses on them to drive them from the trees where they flocked to set up an insistent chatter that all but had nearby residents daffy. But they're back again this year, and in large numbers as before.

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

WITH summer in full swing, and the days warm, the accent is on cooler, more easily prepared meals—meals which feature salads, cold meats, jellied soups and an even greater use of cool, crisp, fresh fruits and vegetables.

According to the A & P Service for Home-Makers, one of the great eat assets to be added to any summertime meal is a dessert made from fine fresh fruit.

Here's a summertime pie filling which should satisfy the family's sweet tooth. Red cherries, fresh strawberries, a dash of rhubarb, juicy sections of orange and a trace of lemon. Bake in a light fluff crust and top with smooth chilled whipped cream.

Why not try floating island? Make it with a chilled custard base teamed up with sliced fresh peaches. On top, more sliced peaches and whipped cream.

A real party ending for a summertime meal is peach upside down cake. The knack involved in making this cake is the proper pouring over full-flavored peach halves, centered with red cherries, well mixed butter-cake batter. After baking, cut the cake into squares and serve as dessert plates.

Not to be neglected in any mention of summertime desserts, and a real menu highlight, is fruit-flavored ice cream. For best results when making fruit-flavored ice cream, grind the fruit well before adding it to the custard base, and then allow the mixture to stand for several hours until the fruit flavor is fully blended. Slow freezing is desirable too in order that the ice cream may have a much desired, creamy texture.

For a delicious hot weather Sunday dinner, try pieces of crisp fried chicken with potato salad, sliced tomatoes, celery stalks, and on the side a big pitcher of iced tea pepped up with a dash of lemon juice and a sprig of mint. For dessert, what could be finer than homemade fresh peach ice cream?

Fortune smiles on those who make a habit of reading Courier Want Ads.

SPORTSMEN'S

BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Big fishing contest . . . this Sunday, August 24, the annual open fishing contest, for children and for adults, will get underway at 7 in the morning at Silver Lake. The contest, sponsored each year by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, will be conducted by members of that organization.

Every catch, until 7 in the evening, will be eligible for entry. Eels and carp, however, are excluded. Winners will be determined by weight in each of the two divisions. There will be a junior division which will be open to all anglers under 16 years of age. Two prizes, $5 and $2.50, will be awarded the two heaviest fish in this division.

In the adult division, open to anyone 16 years of age or over possessing a resident Pennsylvania fishing license, two like prizes will be awarded.

All entries must come from the Lake proper and be landed on approved tackle.

Legal season . . . on Thursday, August 20, the season in which it is legal to train hunting dogs in the fields began. It will continue to next April 1st. Although it is probably too warm to do extensive training at the moment, yet it will be only a few weeks when dogs can be given real workouts. Several of the hunters in this vicinity who own beagles have had them in the fields in the last to days.

Edgely meets . . . next Tuesday, August 26, the Edgely Rod & Gun Club will meet at 8 p. m. in the Headley Manor Fire House. An open invitation, as usual, is extended to all interested sportsmen to attend.

Something different . . . from one of Bristol's well-known bar-risters, Les Kilecny, who is presently vacationing in Maine, comes this interesting letter: "Dr. Hasey and I went fly fishing and came back with two porcupines. . . smallmouth bass fishing is poor . . . all live bait (chiners and hellgramites) . . . going to try pickerel fishing today (Aug. 19) in a stream running through moose country."

Pheasant distribution . . . on Tuesday of this week the first lot of pheasants raised by the Bucks County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs at the Graterford Penitentiary for the 22 member clubs of the Federation, were divided among the clubs. There were 210 birds in the group. Of this number 116 were cockbirds and the remainder hens. Each of 17 clubs were given 5 birds each. Five other clubs, including Bristol and Edgely, received 4 birds each. When the second group of birds is distributed these latter five clubs will receive the extra birds. Although some of the clubs probably released these 12-week-old birds, the Bristol and Edgely Clubs placed theirs in the holding pens with the pheasants they are raising. And although the Federation birds were at least two weeks older there was no appreciable difference in size. As a matter of fact, some of the Bristol and Edgely birds were larger.

Trap shoot . . . the Tru-Sport Game Club, of Southampton, will hold a practice trap shoot this Sunday, beginning at 1 p. m. The shoot will be held on the trap grounds at Southampton. There will be plenty of shells on hand, and all shooters are welcome.

YOUTH LEAGUE
PLAYOFF ENDS
IN A 1 TO 1 TIEBristol Terrace and Bristol Township Play First
of Series

A WELL PLAYED GAME

Teams Will Meet Again On Leedom's Field, Sunday
Afternoon

The Bristol Terrace and Bristol Township team battled seven innings without reaching a decision last evening on the Terrace field. Game ended with the score 1-1. The tilt was a Youth League playoff.

Both teams played fine ball. Terrace came through with a triple play in the first inning and a twin-killing in the second while Township had a double play in the first.

The three-play killing by Terrace in the first was well executed. Eisenbrey drew a walk and Morrell poked a hit to right. Eisenbrey going to third and Morrell, second, on the throw-in. Elker popped a hit to shortstop right. Braam raced out and caught the ball and threw to Cross, getting Eisenbrey who started for the plate. Morrell had almost reached third and was killed before he reached back to second.

Terrace scored its lone run in the second on a hit batsman, a fielder's choice, two walks, and a hit by Triebly. On Triebly's hit, Weida cled at the plate, trying to score.

Township tied it in the fourth on a hit by Elker, a stolen bag, and single by MacSherry. Township passed up an opportunity in the seventh when MacSherry had a two-bagger. Moll walked, and there was an error, but Stone and Lynch were strikeout victims.

"Dick" Harmon did the pitching for Township with Roy Lynch and Morrell doing the hurling for Township. Morrell went in to pitch with two on in the sixth. He purposely walked a batter and then retired two batters to retire the side. Harmon had eight strikeouts.

The teams will meet again on Leedom's field, Sunday afternoon, at one o'clock. The time of the game was moved up so that the Bristol Colored Elks could play an independent game with the Burlington Legion.

BULLDOGS WILL TRAIN
AT QUAKERTOWN CAMP

MORRISVILLE, Aug. 22—A week of pre-season training at Camp Taitt, near Quakertown, is in store for 30 Morrisville high school football candidates. The gridders will leave Sunday afternoon for Camp Taitt, with head coach Gordon Davies, and assistant Alex MacDonald in charge. The Bulldogs plan to renew football camp after a lapse of several years.

Coach Davies will drill the squad for 2½ hours each morning and two hours in the afternoon. Strict training will be enforced and the Bulldog squad is expected to be in fine shape for the opener against Princeton high on September 26.

Visitors and football fans may attend the drills at anytime, school officials state.

The squad will return August 30 and begin drills here on September 2, the day before school classes commence.

SOBY POST AWARDED A FORFEITED GAME

The "crucial" game between Goodwill Hose and the Langhorne Legion, scheduled for last evening, will be played this evening on the Third Ward field. Wet grounds caused postponement of the game last evening.

The Soby Post team was awarded a forfeited game over the Harriman team last evening when the Harriman club did not field a team on Leedom's field. The win put the Soby boys one-half game away from Goodwill Hose for third place.

Should Goodwill beat Langhorne this evening, the regular season of the Suburban League will be over. However, should Langhorne win, then Soby Post will meet the Hibernians in their scheduled game and at the same time, Langhorne Legion will battle the Democrat Club for third position in the second division.
